

Resource Sheet#2

Blockbusting Protesters

Residents of Baltimore were upset at the deliberate slowness or inability of the court system to prosecute real estate companies, such as the Morris Goldseker Company, that profited from the practice of blockbusting.

Protest in front of Morris Goldseker's Real Estate Company. The Baltimore Sun, August 9, 1969. Reprinted with permission of the Baltimore Sun Media Group, All Rights Reserved.